ADVANTAGES OF BIDET OVER JET SPRAY/HEALTH FAUCET

Aspect	Bidet (seat attachment or built-in)	Jet Spray / Health Faucet
Comfort	Gentle, controlled water stream; adjustable pressure; hands-free.	Stronger, sometimes harsh water jet; requires manual aiming.
Hygiene	Minimal hand contact reduces contamination risk; often includes self-cleaning nozzles.	Requires you to hold and aim the nozzle, increasing the chance of contact with unclean surfaces.
Consistency	Water flow and spray angle are fixed and consistent every time.	Angle and pressure vary based on user's hand control; can be messy.
Water Efficiency	Often uses less water because the spray is targeted and controlled.	Can waste more water due to overspray or high-pressure use.
Accessibility Easier for elderly, disabled, or those with limited mobility, no need to twist or reach. Can be difficult for people with mobility or grip issues to operate.
In Short: A bidet is cleaner, more comfortable, and more consistent, while a jet spray/health faucet is cheaper and easier to install but less hygienic and can be messy. Many people who switch to a bidet say it feels like an "upgrade" in both cleanliness & comfort.
